Manager Certification

The ServSafe Manager Certification meets the requirements for being a "certified food protection manager" for your retail food license. It is also a great way to learn new skills in hospitality and management.

In-person classes are on hold, but we hope to resume them later this spring. In addition to in-person classes, see below for learning and testing opportunities that allow you to gain your certification.

Still wanting in-person classes? Contact us to be put on a email list for upcoming classes or follow up on social media.
